Fund Commentary

The Fund delivered a return of 1.3% in April. The strongest contribution came from Calliden Group Ltd (CIX) (whose share price rose 15%, contributing approximately 1.1%). We noted in last month's report that CIX "appears to be gaining wider support and an increasing share price..." That support appears continued.

We have been accumulating shares in two announced takeovers. In one, the target company directors are advising shareholders to reject the offer, yet in our opinion, incumbent directors and management have so far failed to deliver acceptable returns. The other is somewhat different, in that the bidder is likely to obtain a majority of the target's shares at the offer price. We are buying these shares at the offer price, which means we have very limited down-side (for example, the bid fails due to some bid conditions may not be met (or waived) or we may be compulsorily acquired at that price). Our interest is in what might occur in should the bidder fail to reach the compulsory acquisition threshold (90% of the target's shares). For example, the prospect of profiting sometime down the track from a mop-up bid.

As we have noted previously, regulatory responses, especially unconventional monetary ones, can engender significant positive market responses but may not address root causes. The consequences of the significant macro factors at play globally are difficult to predict or quantify.

We remain focused on opportunities that have high levels of tangible assets, marketable securities or cash and whose prospects are somewhat independent of market and economic conditions, as we believe these offer the best risk-adjusted returns in the current environment.
