Fund Commentary

The Fund delivered a return of -1.4% in March. A common theme among the low-lights of this month's negative result were companies whose shares went ex-dividend during the month, and whose shares were subsequently sold down (along with the broader share market). Salmat Ltd (SLM), whose shares traded ex-dividend during the month – a 21 cent per share special dividend and a 4 cent per share ordinary dividend, both of which were fully franked. It appears that ex-dividend, there was little support for the shares (not a great business in our view, but we felt the return of capital with franking could spur some continued support – clearly we were wrong), SLM shares fell by 17% below the theoretical ex-dividend price (-0.9% contribution to the month's result). Coventry Group Ltd (CYG) also detracted from the month's result as its shares fell by more than the dividend (-0.6% contribution).

Calliden Group Ltd (CIX) (whose share price rose 11%, contributing approximately 0.8%) appears to be gaining wider support and an increasing share price after having broken a dividend drought and providing positive market guidance. A number of our portfolio holdings are coming into play. For example, Emerging Leaders, which we discussed last month, announced the rejection of attempts by a shareholder to appoint new directors. Clearly a conflict is emerging, and we keenly await its progress.

As we have noted previously, regulatory responses, especially unconventional monetary ones, can engender significant positive market responses but may not address root causes. The consequences of the significant macro factors at play globally are difficult to predict or quantify.

We remain focused on opportunities that have high levels of tangible assets, marketable securities or cash and whose prospects are somewhat independent of market and economic conditions, as we believe these offer the best risk-adjusted returns in the current environment.
