Fund Commentary

The Fund increased 3.5% this month. Significant contributions came from RHG Ltd (~2.7%) and LinQ Resources Fund (LRF) (~0.6%).

RHG Ltd (RHG) announced at its AGM in November that it would undertake a significant return of capital via a buy-back, as its directors came to the conclusion there was no opportunity for RHG to re-enter the Australian mortgage market. We exited this position on-market following the announcement. The sale generated a return of 69% over the average purchase price.

LinQ Resources Fund (LRF) announced the buy-back price for its tender offer. That price, 98.6 cents, represented a 37% return on our average purchase price.

During the month, we began accumulating two new holdings, which we will discuss in later reports.

The Fund held ~40% of its assets in cash. We remain cautious about the global macro outlook. There are significant macro factors at play globally, the consequences of which are difficult to predict or quantify.

We remain focused on opportunities that have high levels of tangible assets, marketable securities or cash, as we believe these offer the best risk-adjusted returns in the current environment.
